

Likes and Dislikes

Expressing preferences with I like, I don't like, and questions in English.

Recap: Describing People: Basic Adjectives and Colors

- We use be + adjective to describe appearance and traits: He is tall. She is friendly.
- Adjectives go before the noun and never change for plurals: a blue shirt, blue shirts.
- Negative sentences add not after the verb: He is not short. They are not serious.

Quick Question: Is her shirt blue or is he tall?

What Sparks Your Interest?

When meeting someone new, we often talk about what we enjoy. Which one do you prefer: hot coffee or cold ice cream?

Today we discover how to share our authentic personal tastes simply and clearly in English.

Learning Objectives

Objectives

1 Express personal preferences using I like and I don't like with common categories.

2 Ask questions with Do you like...? and respond using natural short answers (Yes, I do / No, I don't).

3 Report another person's preferences accurately using the third-person form He / She likes....

Key Vocabulary

Like

To enjoy something.

Don't Like

To not enjoy something.

Do

A word to ask questions.

Yes

An affirmative answer.

Expressing What You Like

KEY CONCEPT

Affirmative Sentences

To talk about things that give you pleasure, use the base pattern: I like + noun.

- I like pizza. (Me gusta la pizza)
- I like coffee. (Me gusta el café)
- I like music. (Me gusta la música)

Notice that in English, you do not need to add an article when talking about general things.

Expressing What You Don't Like

Negative preferences in simple English.

KEY CONCEPT

Negative Sentences

To express that you do not enjoy something, place don't (do not) before like: I don't like + noun.

- I don't like tea. (No me gusta el té)
- I don't like rock music. (No me gusta el rock)

Remember

Don't is the short contraction of do not.

Grammar Rule: No Articles for General Nouns

English Structure

We talk about items in general without the, a, or an.

✓ I like pizza.

✓ I like coffee.

Avoid This Mistake

In Spanish we often say la pizza or el café, but English omits the article.

~~✗ I like the pizza.~~

~~✗ I like a coffee (when general).~~

Common Mistake

Do not translate directly from Spanish: say "I like soccer," not "I like the soccer."

Everyday Food Vocabulary

Pizza

I like pizza for dinner.

Coffee

I like Colombian coffee.

Chicken & Rice

I like chicken and white rice.

Ice Cream

I don't like melted ice cream.

Music and Rhythm

Popular Genres

Music is a fantastic conversation starter. Share what sounds energize your day.

- Salsa: I like salsa music.
- Rock: I don't like hard rock.
- Reggaeton: I like reggaeton at parties.
- Pop: I like international pop music.

Sports and Free-Time Hobbies

Soccer & Tennis

I like soccer on weekends. I don't like tennis.

Swimming & Running

I like swimming for exercise. Running is hard!

Reading & Movies

I like movies at the cinema. I like reading books.

Check Your Preferences

Which sentence is grammatically correct in English?

1.

I don't likes tea.

2.

I like the coffee.

3.

I am like pizza.

4.

I like coffee.

Check Your Preferences

Which sentence is grammatically correct in English?

1.

I don't likes tea.

2.

I like the coffee.

3.

I am like pizza.

4.

I like coffee.

Asking Questions: Do You Like...?

KEY CONCEPT

Forming the Question

To ask another person about their tastes, use the auxiliary Do at the start:

Do + you + like + [noun] ?

- Do you like pizza?
- Do you like salsa music?
- Do you like soccer?

Short Natural Answers

In English, we usually reply to yes/no questions with short answers instead of just a single word.

Yes, I do.

Affirmative answer (Sí, me gusta)

No, I don't.

Negative answer (No, no me gusta)

Tip

Never say "Yes, I like" by itself. Always say Yes, I do or give the full sentence.

Conversation Flow in Action

Step 1: Ask

Do you like fruit?

Step 2: Reply

Yes, I do!

Step 3: Return

And you? Do you like fruit?

Listening: Coffee and Hobbies

Listen to the audio and answer the questions

Daniel and Maria Discuss Their Preferences

Play audio

- 1 Does Maria like coffee?
- 2 What kind of music does Maria like?
- 3 Does Daniel like salsa?
- 4 What sport does Maria like on Sundays?

Listening: Coffee and Hobbies

Check your answers below

Daniel and Maria Discuss Their Preferences

 Play audio

1

No, she doesn't.

2

She likes salsa and pop music.

3

Yes, he does.

4

She likes swimming.

Reporting Others: He and She Likes

KEY CONCEPT

The Third-Person "-s" Chunk

When talking about another person (a classmate, a family member, or a friend), add -s to the verb:

- He likes: Carlos likes soccer.
- She likes: Ana likes Italian food.
- Negative chunk: She doesn't like tea.

Learn this as a ready-to-use speaking chunk for introducing your classmates.

Contrast: I Like vs. He Likes

Notice how the verb changes when switching from yourself to someone else:

I like music. → He likes music.

I don't like tennis. → She doesn't like tennis.

Watch and Learn: Talking About Likes

Listen carefully to the rhythm and pronunciation of natural English questions and answers.

Beginner English A1

Lesson 3

LIKES AND FAVORITES

Pronunciation Guide: /laɪks/

Saying "Likes"

Pronounce the crisp /s/ sound clearly at the end of the word:

/laɪks/ → "lykes"

Ana likes fruit.

Saying "Don't"

Combine smoothly with a short, clean 'o' vowel sound:

/doʊnt/ → "dohnt"

I don't like rock.

Pronunciation Tip

Do not drop the final "s" when saying he likes or she likes!

Match Preferences

Match the words with the definitions

Do you like...?

She enjoys this (third person)

I like

I find this enjoyable

I don't like

Question to ask someone's taste

She likes

I do not enjoy this

Match Preferences

Match the words with the definitions

Do you like...?

I like

I don't like

She likes

A

She enjoys this (third person)

B

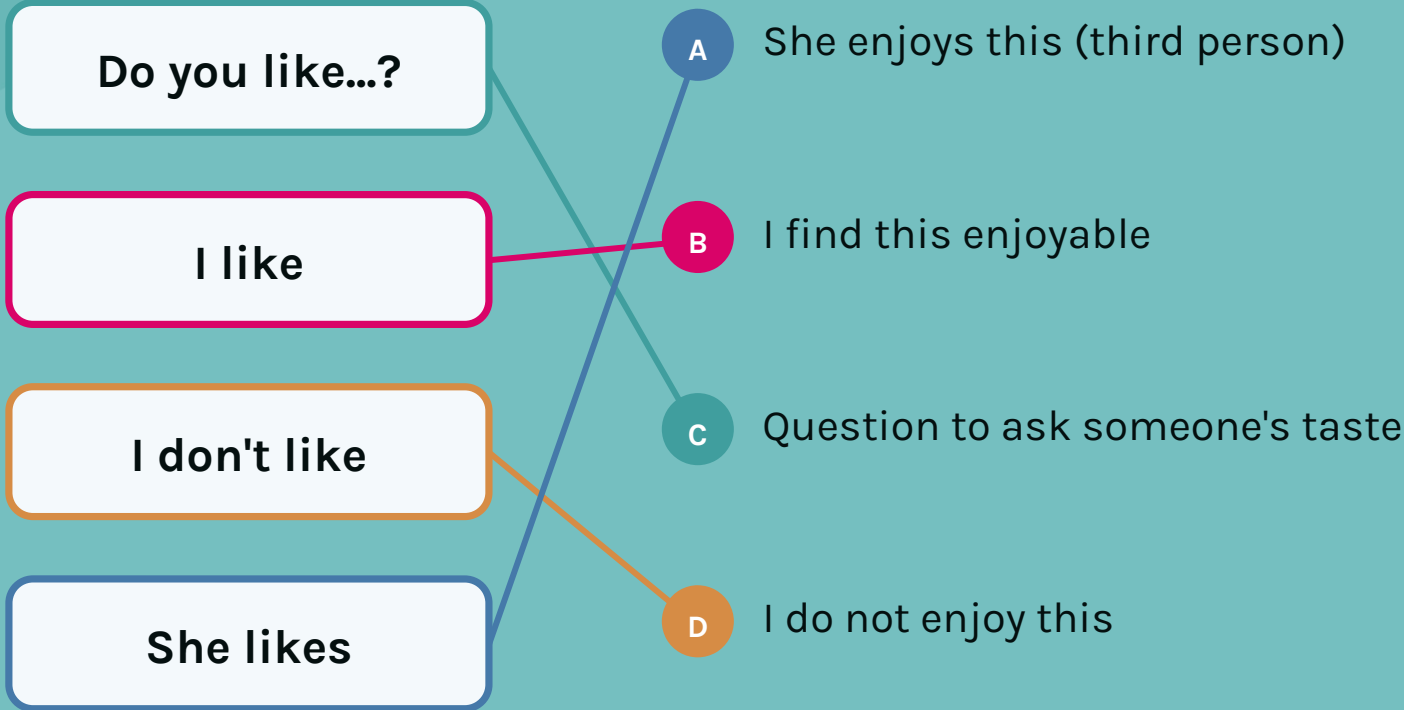

I find this enjoyable

C

Question to ask someone's taste

D

I do not enjoy this

Building Classmate Profiles

Step 2

Listen to answer: Yes, I do / No, I don't.

Step 1

Ask your partner: Do you like pizza?

Step 3

Report: Carlos likes pizza!

Pair Interview: Likes and Dislikes

Interview your partner: Ask three 'Do you like...?' questions about food, music, and sports. Then answer your partner's questions using 'Yes, I do' or 'No, I don't'.

Pair Interview: Likes and Dislikes

You might have said...

Example Question: Do you like soccer?

Example Answer: Yes, I do. I like soccer on weekends.

Example Question: Do you like rock music?

Example Answer: No, I don't. I like salsa.

Find Someone Who...

Interactive Class Activity

Circulate with your classmates (or in breakout rooms) to find people who match these items:

- Find someone who likes coffee in the morning.
- Find someone who likes salsa music.
- Find someone who doesn't like running.
- Find someone who likes pizza on Fridays.

Write their names down and prepare to introduce them!

Connecting to Session 11: Introducing Others

What We Learned So Far

- Name and age: This is Ken. He is 28 years old.
- Origin & job: He is from Japan. He is a teacher.

Today's Addition

Now we add personal preferences to give life to our introductions:

"He likes soccer and he likes Colombian coffee."

Check Your Understanding

Question 1:

How do you ask someone if they like pizza?

Question 2:

What is the correct short affirmative answer to 'Do you like music?'

Question 3:

How do you say that Ana enjoys movies?

Check Your Understanding

Answer 1:

Do you like pizza?

Answer 2:

Yes, I do.

Answer 3:

Ana likes movies.